Alfredo De Jesús O.

Venezuelan Arbitration Committee, Caracas

Alfredo De Jesús O., is the Representative for Latin America of the London Court of International Arbitration Young International Arbitration Group (LCIA-YIAG). Alfredo is a Venezuelan attorney practicing from Caracas and Paris. He concentrates his practice in international arbitration, particularly involving States, state entities, as well as Latin American parties. He has acted as counsel for both Latin American state owned entities and foreign investors in the region in a variety of ad-hoc and institutional investment and commercial arbitration proceedings related to natural resources disputes (oil, gas and metallic minerals), and others. Alfredo graduated with honours from the Andrés Bello Catholic University in Caracas and holds two Master's degrees from the University of Paris I (Panthéon-Sorbonne) and the University of Paris II (Panthéon-Assas), where he is also about to defend his PhD thesis on the transnational law of contracts and obligations. He currently lectures on international arbitration in the LLM in Arbitration and International Business Law of the University of Versailles and in the Joint LLM in International Business Law of the University of Paris II and the University of Monterrey. He is the Founder and Deputy Secretary General of the Venezuelan Arbitration Committee, the Venezuelan Reporter of the Institute for Transnational Arbitration and KluwerArbitration.com, and the author of the regular column on arbitration of Venezuela's Supreme Court Law Journal. Alfredo publishes extensively in his areas of expertise and works in Spanish, English, French and Portuguese.

CECILIA FLORES RUEDA

Her legal practice at Santamarina y Steta in Mexico City focuses on commercial arbitration. She handles international and domestic arbitrations, both as party representative and arbitrator, under various arbitration rules, mainly on issues related to infrastructure projects, construction, energy, shareholders' disputes, joint-ventures, international sale of goods, insurance, and commercial transactions in general. She has particular experience conducting large complex cases.

She represents clients before state and federal courts in proceedings requesting and enforcing interim measures, and recognition and enforcement of arbitral awards.

She graduated with an honourable mention thesis from the Universidad Panamericana, where she also studied a post graduate course in Commercial Law. She obtained a Masters degree with honourable mention in International Private Law from the Instituto Tecnológico y de Estudios Superiores de Monterrey (ITESM). As recipient of the Victor Folsom Fellowship, she attended the Academy of American and International Law (sponsored by the Institute for International and Comparative Law), oriented to a wide range of commercial transactions and legal institutions. She also has studies in mediation and arbitration in Mexico and abroad.

For 6 years she worked as Secretary General for the Mediation and Arbitration Centre of the Mexico City National Chamber of Commerce (CANACO), where she was in charge of the administration of mediation and arbitration proceedings, both domestic and international, under the rules of CANACO, the Commercial Arbitration and Mediation Centre for the Americas (CAMCA) and the Inter-American Commercial Arbitration Commission (IACAC). At the same time, as an independent practitioner, she participated in many arbitration proceedings related to international trade, insurance and joint ventures.

She currently represents Mexico before the Arbitration and Conciliation Group of the United Nations Commission for International Trade Law (UNCITRAL) and in the NAFTA Advisory Committee on Private Commercial Disputes (2022 Committee). She is member of the Mediation and Arbitration Commission of CANACO and is Mexican correspondent for the Institute for International Arbitration (ITA). She is also member of the Arbitration Commission of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC), President of the ICC Young Arbitrator's Forum (YAF) in México and member of the Regional Coordinating Committee of the ICC YAF Latin America Chapter.

She teaches the Negotiation, Mediation and Arbitration course in the Universidad La Salle, and is member of the faculty of the Arbitration Diploma Course by the ICC and the Escuela Libre de Derecho. She has also lectured many arbitration related courses in a number of universities throughout the country.

As editor, she recently published the Diccionario Enciclopédico de Arbitraje Comercial (Themis, 2010). She has also published articles related to arbitration and dispute resolution matters.

ALBERTO ZULETA-LONDOÑO is a member of the Dispute Resolution and Investment Protection Group of Gómez-Pinzón Zuleta Abogados. He holds an LL.M. degree from Harvard Law School and is a professor in several graduate programs concerning international commercial arbitration and investment protection. He has been a party advocate, secretary, and arbitrator to multiple arbitrations and has published several articles related to international arbitration and international contracts.

Pedro Claros Alegría is a partner in the International Arbitration Practice of Cuatrecasas in Madrid. He has extensively dealt with international litigation and arbitration cases. He acts as defense counsel in international arbitration, including institutional and ad hoc arbitration. He has acted as arbitrator before the International Court of Arbitration of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) and the Madrid Court of Arbitration (Madrid Chamber of Commerce) where he is a chartered arbitrator.

He represents a Spanish investor against a Latin American State in an ad-hoc arbitration. He represents a South American State before Spanish Courts in different claims brought by bondholders and foreign investors. He has counseled a Central American State before an ICSID panel in a case brought by a Spanish investor. He has also acted as defense lawyer for a Latin American State Agency in the Recognition and Enforcement of an ICC Award against a sovereign entity, coordinating actions within 8 Jurisdictions. He has represented a Latin American company before the Spanish Courts in annulment proceedings of an ICC Award on the grounds of lack of impartiality of the President of the Arbitral Tribunal. Other cases include corporate, acquisition disputes and unfair competition claims. His academic background includes an Economic Science degree, being highly qualified for tax, economic and financial analysis.

He has extensively participated in publishing in legal magazines and collective books. He is co-author of “Comentarios a la Nueva Ley de Arbitraje” (Grupo Difusión, 2004, 2ed. 2008). He teaches Litigation and Arbitration Practice at the School of Law of the Comillas Pontifical University, ICADE (Madrid). He is a member of the Drafting Committee for the Independence and Impartiality Guidelines within the Independence and Impartiality Committee of the Spanish Club of Arbitration. He is LL.M. in International and Comparative Law with a Fulbright Scholarship, Georgetown University Law Center, Washington, D.C. 2001, where he graduated with distinction, majoring in International Arbitration.

Dyalá Jiménez works in the fields of commercial arbitration and investment arbitration. She has been appointed sole arbitrator and president of the Court of Arbitration in two cases under ICC Rules. For two consecutive years, the Legal Who's Who distinguished Dyalá Jiménez as one of the five top experts in international commercial arbitration of Chile in its annual publication "The International Who's Who of Commercial Arbitration 2010". Dyalá

Jiménez is a member of the CCI Latin American Arbitration Group and of the International Arbitration Institute (IAI).

Before joining private practice, Dyalá Jiménez worked for seven years in the ICC's International Court of Arbitration, first in Paris and later in Chile, as Director for Latin America.

Dyalá Jiménez obtained her law degree with honors from Universidad de Costa Rica and has an LL.M. from Georgetown University (1999, Fulbright Scholar; graduated with honors).
